108th Year No. 10

Skagit County Pomona Elects Youngest Master in State

Skagit County Pomona Grange elected the youngest Pomona Master in the state, and possibly in the entire nation, at their meeting on November 6th at Skagit Valley Grange. Lacey Rude, an 18-year-old freshman at Skagit Valley College, was chosen to lead Skagit County for the coming year. Lacey is very excited and looking forward to the opportunity. She has been a very active member of Fredonia Grange since she joined at the age of 13, holding several offices at both the Subordinate and Pomona levels. She has been active in the Youth Department at State Grange for most of those years and was in the Rose Drill when the convention was held in Mount Vernon. She was part of the youth delegation that went to the National Grange Convention in 2018. Lacey's plans for the coming year include revitalizing committees for more participation by members and emphasis on gaining new members. She also hopes to get the Granges involved in more community service projects and activities.

2020 Creative Writing and Talent Contests Announced

Leslie Jo Wells

By Leslie Jo Wells
State Grange Lecturer

The Lecturer Team met on November 2nd at Riverside Valley Grange in Pierce County. Our timing was good because we were able to enjoy their great hospitality and a delicious lunch before we got to work. We reviewed and discussed the various programs in the Lecturer Department that we will be using for 2020. We made few changes and I thought I'd share the information for the Creative Writing contest so you can get started on your entries.

Creative Writing – Get Your Creative Juices Flowing

Poetry – The 2020 theme for the Poetry Contest is: "Camping". There is no word limit.

Short Story/Anecdote – The theme for 2020 is "Thoughts on Nature". This category has a maximum word limit of 1000 words. Remember, your short story/anecdote should entertain the reader.

Essay – The 2020 theme for the essay is "It's Native to Walla Walla". This category also has a 1000 word limit. Your essay should be informative for the reader.

Book Review – This is a review of a book that you would recommend to others. Your entry should evaluate/critique the overall work – not re-tell the story of the book. The word count has been eliminated.

This contest is open to both members and non-members. The divisions are: Adults, age 20 and older and Youth, ages 14 – 19. There is no contest for kids younger than 14. Entries must be postmarked by April 1st and mailed to: Leslie Jo Wells, State Lecturer, 18232 201st Avenue SE, Monroe, WA 98272. The complete rules for the Creative Writing Contest will be in the Program Handbook, on the website and in the Lecturer Packet at the Leadership Conferences.

Talent Contest – Big Changes Coming for 2020

We will not be holding District Contests. For many years we have held District "qualifying" contests in the four areas of the state. Unfortunately, the participation has dropped off significantly over the most recent several years. In fact, of the 8 district contests scheduled in the last two years, only 4 were actually held. That meant that at pretty much the last minute we were trying to contact Granges and judges to cancel the event – because we were not aware of any participants. The situation was not fair to the Granges who were opening their halls and furnishing refreshments or to the judges that were donating their time and expertise. We are going to try something new this year: You and your Grange member friends will be able to sign up to participate in the State Talent Contest once you arrive at Convention. We are still working on the details and will have them to share with you in the Program Handbook, at the Leadership Conferences in Jan/Feb and as they say... watch this space!

2020 Candle Lighting Ceremony

I plan to have the Candle Lighting Ceremony posted on the website by mid-December. I'm still trying to get all my creative juices flowing in the same direction!

If you have any questions or suggestions for the Lecturer Department, please call me (360-306-0905) or email me (lesliewells@att.net). Also, one more time, I have a new address: Leslie Jo Wells, 18232 201st Avenue SE, Monroe, WA 98272.

President's Message

Cultivating Connections In Every Grange

By Tom Gwin
State Grange
Master/President

As we enter our 153rd year as the Grange organization, we may reflect on our successes of past years. We just completed our 153rd Annual National Grange Convention in Bloomington, MN. I, along with State Executive Committeeman Duane Hamp, served as the delegates from the Washington State Grange. Duane was the Chair of the Audit & Budget Committee, while I served as the Chair of the Conservation Committee. The Conservation Committee considered 15 resolutions, ranging from environmental issues to public lands, power, and the weather. Each resolution was thoroughly discussed, both pro and con. No topic was left untouched as we explored all aspects of our committee work.

Moving on to 2020, the new National Grange theme is "Cultivating Connections". Putting these two words together can lead to a wide array of thoughts. Starting with the word "cultivating", we think about spring when we prepare the soil and plant the seeds for our Grange year. We nurture the tender plant until it grows into maturity and becomes productive. In the Grange, we nurture our youth and juniors in hope they will grow and be productive members. We provide opportunity for our adult members to grow and develop their leadership and communication skills that will lead to a stronger organization.

Likewise, "connections" are the lifeblood of each Grange. From making our halls available to our community citizens to partnering with individuals or groups to complete a service project, those Granges that connect with their community find themselves making an impact in their community. Another aspect of connections is putting our experienced members in contact with our newer members and mentoring or teaching like skills to the younger members. Our youth Grangers are outstanding mentors to the Junior Grangers in our camping program. We must continue to utilize the skills of our experienced Grange members in developing the skills of new and potential members that will create a positive productive Grange experience for all.

We plan to utilize the "Cultivating Connections" theme throughout our programming in 2020.

We plan to utilize the "Cultivating Connections" theme throughout our programming in 2020.

We are renaming the Grange Leadership Conferences to the Grange Resource and Leadership Conferences this year. The new name will better reflect the intent of the conference in providing resources to each Grange for their yearly program of activities. The schedule can be found elsewhere in this issue. The plan is to include each of the State Grange Directors in the conferences. Each of the conferences will begin with a general session for all Grangers, where we will provide you with resources and ideas on where and how you can begin cultivating connections in your Grange. This session will be followed by a breakout session where you will choose one to attend. The sessions will include a training for Grange Secretaries and multiple presentations focused on opportunities for Grange Lecturer, Family Living Chairs, Membership Development, Community Service Projects, and Youth and Junior Programs. I suggest bringing a carload of people from your Grange so you can be represented at each of the sessions.

Also, in this issue, you will find a list of dates for the upcoming year. Two important dates are Grange Legislative Day, scheduled for February 20 in Olympia and the State Grange Convention, which will be June 24-27 in Walla Walla.

As we approach the holidays, you are invited to one of our Grange Holiday Celebrations: December 14 at the Moses Lake Grange Hall and December 15 at the South Union Grange Hall. Both events will begin with a potluck dinner at 1 p.m., followed by activities for the entire family. We hope you will take the time to socialize and make connections with your fellow Grange members.

From the officers and staff of the Washington State Grange, our best wishes to each of you for a wonderful holiday season. Let's work to cultivate the connections that will lead to increased activity and success in every Grange in our state and nation!

How An Idea Develops Into A New Law

By Heather Hansen
Legislative Lobbyist

Heather Hansen

Last month, I wrote about what happens to resolutions after convention. This month let's take it a step farther and learn how an idea can develop into a new law.

Washington has 49 legislative districts, each elects a Senator and two Representatives so, each citizen is represented by three legislators. Senators serve four-year terms and Representatives serve two-year terms.

The Washington state legislature meets every year. In odd numbered years, following an election, the legislature meets for 105 days and crafts a new biennial budget. In even numbered years, the legislature meets for 60 days and adopts a supplemental budget. Either session can be extended with 30-day special sessions if needed. The regular session begins the second Monday in January each year. In 2020, that will be January 13.

Citizens have a voice. Any legislator may introduce a bill on any subject. If one or more constituents approach a legislator with an idea, that legislator may have a bill drafted and introduced on the subject.

Legislators can't help you if they don't know who you are or what you need. Washington state is becoming increasingly urban. Fewer and fewer legislators understand rural issues. If farmers, foresters and other citizens from rural area don't come to the capital to tell their story, it won't be heard. After the next census and redistricting, it is very likely that half of all legislators in Washington State will be from King County.

To be effective at influencing legislators, it's best to develop a relationship with them before the legislative session begins. Get to know all three of your legislators and their staff. A good way to do this is to attend events where they are speaking or invite them to speak at Grange meetings. Every legislator has an assistant who manages his or her calendar. Legislators are very busy and some Legislative Assistants (LA) are very protective of their time. The better relationship you have with the LA, the more likely you are to get an appointment. LAs can also be very helpful at guiding you to the best approach to communicate with a legislator. Sometimes, an email or phone call may work better than a meeting.

Do your homework. Every legislator's bio is online on the Washington State legislature's website and on his or her campaign website. Search for them by name. Reading their bio will tell you about their family, work experiences and interests. Finding something you have in common is a great way to build a relationship.

It's also important to research your issue. Know who might oppose it and why. How much will it cost? Legislators do not like to be blindsided, so the more thorough your research, the more willing they will be to take up your issue. Prepare a one-page sheet about your issue to give to your legislators.

I will continue this series about influencing the legislature. As always, if you have any questions or would like more information, please let me know.

By-Laws

Molson Grange #1069 will meet on December 12, 2019 to vote on changing their meeting times to the 2nd Wednesday or each month at 2:00 p.m.

Cultivating Connections in 2020

As the National Grange Master, Betsy Huber announced at the 153rd Annual Session last month, the National Grange's theme for 2020 is "Cultivating Connections". This theme builds upon the 2018 "I'm a Do-er" and 2019 "Hometown Heroes" themes.

So how can we build upon this theme as both a state Grange and at our local Granges? Let's first look at what those two words mean; the word cultivating is of course a word used in agriculture but how else can that word be used? In our everyday life, cultivating relationships is key. Cultivating means planting, growing, nurturing and developing, all of which can be used to begin or strengthen a relationship with others whether they are old or new to you. How can we help grow, nurture and develop our connections with others? Identifying our connections would be a great start. Connections means linking others together, networking and creating relationships.

It is important to also cultivate our connections in our youth and junior programs as well. How do we do this? We begin by planting the seeds, nurturing the seeds and then we will begin to watch them develop and grow in knowledge, abilities, commitment and leadership. All of these skills are so important in our everyday lives and our juniors and youth will one day say that the Grange was a critical part of their path to learning and growing into adulthood. How active is your Grange in helping to cultivate these connections with our youth? How can your Grange better strengthen those connections? Do you invite youth in your community into the Grange? Organizations such as FFA, 4-H, Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts are great avenues. Maybe your Grange is located near a school where you might invite them into the Grange or offer an after-school activity hosted by the Grange. Hosting events like a Trunk or Treat or an Easter egg hunt or a Santa's breakfast are great ways to get to know the youth in your community.

Finding your local connections in your community is a key factor to consider. Is your Grange connected with local organizations, local government, the military and veterans in your area? How can we better cultivate those connections? What does the Grange offer to them and how can we better partner with others in the community?

These are all great questions to ask as a Grange as you begin to work to set goals for the coming year.

National Grange John Trimble Legislative Award Winner Jonny Pittman Discusses His Experience

By Jonny Pittman
John Trimble Legislative
Experience Award Winner

It was my pleasure to attend the 153rd National Grange Convention in Bloomington, Minnesota as the youth representative for the John Trimble Legislative Experience. The John Trimble Legislative Experience is a National Grange program that allows one to two Grange Youth, aged 16 to 35 to be a full voting member of a national committee, to be officially be seated with the National delegate body, and to be recognized during roll call of the delegates.

As a founding member of Moses Lake Grange #1151 in May of 2017, I knew little about Grange at any level. By November 2017, I became a 7th degree member at the National Convention in Spokane, WA.

The following 2018 Washington State Grange was the first state convention attended as a voting delegate. I knew nothing about Robert's Rule of Order or how the resolution process worked. Sitting on the committee we read the resolution, debated what we thought about the resolution, and then voted on what to do with the resolution. After the opening of the State Grange, we moved into the work with the delegate body. I remember sitting there wondering what in the world is going on? A resolution is read, someone makes an amendment, then an amendment is made to the amendment. Somebody else is confused and asks to question. But instead of answering their question the delegate body stops debating and immediately votes. Not knowing what was going on was a feeling I did not like. After state convention, I read Robert's Rules of Order, bought a double-sided cheat sheet to Robert's Rule of Order, and read another book that walked through different examples of how a meeting progresses using Robert's Rule of Order.

November 2018, I attended the National Convention in Stowe, Vermont as part of the National Youth Officers Team. I remember surviving Grange drill boot camp, learning an opening and closing drill in two nights, to be done during the youth opening for Friday's Session. During the opening, I first heard of the John Trimble Legislative Experience, as the winner of that year's experience, a youth from California, was included in the morning roll call of officers. After the 2018 National Convention I made it known to my local Grange and to the State Grange President that I would like to apply for the John Trimble Youth Legislative Experience.

After signing up as a delegate for the 2019 state convention, I was surprised to be assigned chair of the National Legislative Committee.

Leading the committee meeting, and answering the questions when the delegate body asked wwwwhhhyyyy were all challenges that pushed me just outside of my comfort zone. I am grateful to have been surrounded with a team of committee members, each qualified to lead the committee, but kind enough to share their wisdom and experience when I was not 100% sure how to proceed.

The official photo backdrop of the 2019 National Grange Convention read "Everything has led you here". The above story explained how I made it to the 2019 National Grange Convention for the John Trimble Legislative Experience, when just a couple of years before I was ignorant in all things Grange.

At the 2019 National Convention I was placed on the Ag committee. I remember walking into the committee room to be warmly greeted by Grange leaders from Maryland, Nebraska, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Montana, Indiana, and Illinois. I observed how the committee worked through the resolutions and spoke up on topic I knew, or when computer-based research was needed. This year marked the second year the National Grange gave delegates the option to follow the resolution work using a computer and SharePoint. As the youngest person in the room, it was satisfying to show the delegates how to use SharePoint and watch them learn, only needing to show them once. I later learned the delegate from Nebraska was given the job as committee secretary, so he would be too busy typing to have time to talk.

The National Session Opened in the 7th degree and I was seated next to my mentors from North Carolina, Jimmy and Anita Gentry. Jimmy and Anita showed me true southern hospitality. All session long when I had a question Jimmy and Anita would give straightforward, thought out answers. On the first day, Anita assured me I had the authority to ask to speak on the session floor and kindly encouraged me to speak up. Observing Jimmy for the week, I saw a leader that was always reading to learn, not speaking unless he had something worth saying, and when speaking he spoke with knowledge, authority, and enthusiasm. I could not have asked for a better pair of mentors.

For the most part, I now understand what is happening on the session floor, and can appreciate delegates that speak well on the floor. I realize how important committee work is. In the committee setting the resolutions can really be discussed, reviewed, and dug deeply into. By the time a resolution hits the session floor, things are moving quickly and there is no time to dig deeply into the meaning of the resolution. Furthermore, I am starting to understand what makes a good resolution. First a resolution needs a specific, unique title. Next a resolution needs enough whereas detail to explain the resolution, but the resolved needs to be direct and detailed enough to stand on its own. Yet it should not be so narrowly detailed in scope, written to support a specific bill going through the legislation. As bills progress through the legislature, bills can be changed from what the Grange initially supported. Or if the bill dies, the meaning behind the resolution will need go through the resolution process all over again. But if the original resolution had covered the intent of the specific bill, the Grange would be able to lobby for it without needing to have it brought back through the resolution process. When a resolution says the Grange supports xyz, that is a very powerful statement, that allows our state Grange representatives and national legislative director to work with other like-minded groups to build coalitions to promote legislation the Grange stands for in our legislative handbooks.

The 2019 National Convention was not spent entirely in session. The best memories from convention came from reconnecting with Grangers met at past conventions and meeting new friends all over the United States. There was one nice old granny from Ohio that said I could call her grandma. I met a fellow chemist working to overcome the same professional struggles I face. I talked with the WWII quilt for valor recipient, and ordered a book he recommended that documented his time in occupied Japan dealing with the nuclear bomb fallout.

The youth from Washington State represented our state well at Nationals, including but not limited to leading the opening drill, marching in step, speaking with confidence during the opening, passing on the National Young Patron title, and winning another National Youth Ambassadorship. Doing the John Trimble Legislative Experience and everything that led me to it has taught me skills that will be used in the Grange and in my professional life for the rest of my life. Thank you for supporting the Washington State Grange Youth.

Juniors

Juniors Are The Future Leaders Of Our Grange

Heather Ferguson

By Heather Ferguson
Junior Grange Director

Having a Junior program is easier than you think. If you have children that attend your meetings, but not enough to organize a Junior Grange, than the 1+ program is for your Grange. The 1+ program allows a single child, ages 5-14, to become full-fledged Junior Grange members. All they need to do is submit a simple application to the subordinate Grange and receive the Junior Grange obligation to start their Grange journey. Keeping Juniors active and busy during Grange meetings will get them excited and curious about the Grange.

As a 1+ member, they are eligible to enter any of the State and National Junior contests appropriate for their age. The new 2020 National and State Junior programs will be available after the New Year, so keep an eye out for them. This would be a great time for your Junior Committee or chairperson to help make a goals list for each Junior or your group of Juniors on what they want to accomplish for the year. Making a list that outlines all of the requirements and deadlines will help you and your Juniors achieve more and make sure all of their entries are complete and on time.

Junior members need to understand the importance and reasons of our degree work. As 1+ members they will not have the opportunity to participate in a Junior meeting and will need to learn about degree work during a subordinate meeting. This is as easy as 1+ members filling in absent seats or shadowing an officer during the opening and closing of your meeting. Remember, Juniors attention spans can be very short you may want to allow them to leave during the business portion of the meeting to work on their own projects.

Juniors are valuable and should be treated as the future leaders of our organization. Please consider adding 1+ Junior members to your Grange. If you are needing information, have questions or need ideas about a 1+ program or a Junior Grange program, I am always available.

Washington Grange Youth Shine At National Convention

Jerry Gwin

By Jerry Gwin
State Youth Director

The youth members of the WA State Grange did themselves proud at the 153rd National Grange Convention in Bloomington, Minnesota.

Brittney Oliver (Moses Lake) gave up her title as 2019 National Grange Outstanding Young Patron. We are pleased to have Alexis Kudsk (Haynie) named as one of the 2019 National Grange Youth. Alexis is sure to have an exciting year in store as she travels to represent both the National Grange and the Washington State Grange.

The National Grange Youth Officer Team performed an impressive drill as they opened the Grange on Friday morning. Congratulations to Youth Assistant Steward Skylar Zaborac (Humptulips), Chaplain Georgia Clark (North River), Secretary Isabella Lierman (Horseshoe) and Executive Committeeman Lane Smith (Humptulips) for your excellent representation of our state.

Jonathan Pittman (Moses Lake)

was this year's recipient of the John Trimble Legislative Experience. You can read about Jonny's experience elsewhere in this issue.

As we close the book on 2019, we are planning our youth department activities for 2020. Our first event will be the State Grange Youth Getaway Weekend on March 6-8 in Moses Lake. Information on this event will be in the January issue of The Grange News.

Family Living

December News From Your Family Living Director

By Helen Berg
Family Living Director

Helen Berg

As we enter the Christmas season I would like to take some time to encourage you to begin working on projects that make a difference. If you have never made a comfort toy give it a try. I took a bag of toys to the fire department and they were so excited to get them. Just remember that sewn on or painted faces are required so as to keep small parts out of young children's mouths. Adult bibs are greatly appreciated in our nursing homes. Try making one reversible with a Christmas print on one side.

Care packages for the homeless including hygiene and toiletries products along with a special treat would be fun to put together.

Perhaps putting together a few hugs in a mug would be something you could do and take to a nursing home or VA center. These could include a puzzle book, pencil, deck of cards, hot chocolate and anything else you think a patient could use to help pass the time.

Lap robes are always appreciated. Just be sure they are long enough to cover their legs. This is a great way to try out a quilt pattern you have been wanting to try. They need to be washable in very hot water.

We will be collecting used eyeglasses again this year. Dr. Ogden in Goldendale uses these glasses when he goes to third world countries and distributes them to people who have a great need for them. He is willing to visit your grange and put on a program if you are interested. I have seen pictures of several of his trips and can personally say it was well worth the time. You can contact him at his office at (509) 773-4114.

Our State Quilt Block will be colors purple and teal. You may use any pattern you like however it must measure 12 1/2". Hope to have many blocks this year. Remember they do become property of the of the Family Living Dept. and will be put into a quilt which will be auctioned off at State Convention in Walla Walla. Proceeds go to support projects in our department.

In this joyous Christmas Season may we not forget the reason for the season. Have a very Merry Christmas and a Happy and prosperous New Year.

Looking forward to seeing you at our Leadership Conferences.

Centerville Grange Parking Lot Paved

Centerville Grange recently had their parking area paved. The paving was done on the north and west side of the building and funding for the project was provided by a grant received from the State of Washington thanks through the effort of our State Representative Gina Mosbrucker. The lot on the south side of the building will be paved in the future once the ground has settled. The Community Church had very little parking space and they now will be able to park at the Grange hall.

Rose Valley Grange Makes Fidget Blankets

Rose Valley Grange is making fidget blankets for Alzheimer's patients. Here are a few that have been made. The picture of the boy was a first for Nicole and he absolutely loved playing with it. He is in a special needs class at school. Nicole posted it on Facebook to let the community know that they could make these at the Grange. A lady responded to the post asking for a special one for her step mom. Nicole made her a blanket and delivered it to her. She was so happy with joy on the beauty of it and was full of happy tears. It even had a place that she printed a picture of her daughter and husband so she could see it daily. We have had so many request for these blankets. It makes our hearts filled with joy to make them for people.

For the 3rd Annual Fargher Lake Grange Pumpkin Growing and Carving Contest, prizes were sponsored by Jim Lester with pumpkins donated by the Farther Lake Store. Junior and Youth Grangers each had three pumpkins to carve. Prizes were given for 1st, 2nd and 3rd place. Junior and Youth Grangers were also asked to grow pumpkins at home with a prize going to the largest home grown pumpkin. Arthur Zimmerman had an 85 lbs winner.

Junior and Youth Grangers proudly display their contenders at the 3rd Annual Pumpkin Carving and growing contest held at Farther Lake Grange.
