Riverside Valley Grange Celebrates Ribbon Cutting On New Hall

Following several years of work, Riverside Valley Grange #1047 held a ribbon cutting ceremony for their new hall on May 13, 2019.

The ceremony followed several years of negotiation between the Grange and Murrey's Disposal Company. In an exchange of property, the disposal company received the Grange's former property and the former Grange hall.

The Grange received a new Grange hall, land with paved parking area and landscaping.

Grange members were heavily involved with the negotiations and the design of the new hall. The State Grange Executive Committee was kept apprised of the negotiations and progress being made. Final approval of the property exchanges was made at the January meeting of the executive committee.

Riverside Valley Grange members were joined by the members of several neighboring Pierce County Grange members for the ribbon cutting ceremony. Representatives of Murrey's Disposal Company also joined in the festivities.

A short program, presided over by Pierce County

Pomona Master Jarrod Gardner, followed the ribbon cutting. Speakers included State Master Tom Gwin, State Overseer Karen Jackson, and State Executive Committeeman David Bryant, along with Riverside Valley Grange Master Ken Cockle.

The members of Riverside Valley Grange moved their belongings into the new hall prior to the ribbon cutting.

The Grange has purchased window blinds and other equipment for their new hall, as well. Congratulations to the members of Riverside Valley Grange on their new acquisition. We wish you the best of you work for the betterment of your community.

Riverside Valley Grange is located just outside of the City of Fife in Pierce County.

Eye On Membership

It Takes An Active Grange To Grow A Grange

Cecelia Hamilton John Hamilton

By Cecelia & John Hamilton
Membership Directors

May is one of the busiest months of the year for us Grangers. Plans for our State Convention in Okanogan are underway as well as yearly spring planting is now in full speed all across our beautiful state. It is the time of year to prepare our soil and gardens as well as to prepare for the work of our State Grange at our June Convention.

One area of our work as a State Grange is the writing of our resolutions. These resolutions begin with an idea or thought that we feel is a topic worthy of adaptation or change. These thoughts initially take shape as a draft, then are finalized and approved by our individual Granges in order to be sent on to state headquarters to be processed and sent on to committee. For many of us who choose to plant a garden we must begin with our soil being cleared and tilled, fertilized and carefully planted in hopes of producing a healthy bounty. Both the writing of resolutions and preparing of our gardens require careful thought, research, dedication and hard work. Both begin with a desire to produce a successful outcome or result. As Grangers we all have the ability to work together to accomplish great things. Together we make a difference for the good of our communities, state and nation. Today we are not only the voice of rural America it is also vital that we include our larger cities and suburbs as we seek to make a difference. We have witnessed the birth of urban gardens and cooperatives which produce food for thousands within a community. Our urban neighborhoods have many of the same needs and issues as rural residents and businesses. Yes, each populated area has individual and unique challenges but as a community Grange we can and must serve both. As we research for our resolutions remember to consider all possibilities of outcome in our end results and how all will be affected by them. The deadline for submission of resolutions to State Grange is May

With school year coming to an end there is bound to be ample time for fun as the weather brings sunshine and possible outdoor travels. We do hope your spring will also include a variety of activities within your grange to promote your Grange membership. Remember it takes an active Grange to grow a Grange, and also as you plan these activities remember to include all ages in your events.

We look forward to seeing many of you at Convention and invite you all to stop by our Membership table and display for a visit. Be sure to enter our Membership drawing while visiting for your chance at winning a special basket filled with many membership tools as well as surprise items! We look forward to seeing many of you also at the Celebration Banquet on Thursday evening where many Granges will receive recognition for their hard work in growing their Granges and also have the opportunity to win VISA Cash Cards for membership growth! See you in Okanogan!

President's Message

Grange Heroes Prepare For A Busy Summer Of Grange Activities

By Tom Gwin
State Grange
Master/President

The warmer days of April remind us that summer is fast approaching. Many of us have been on the move forward through the spring and we now have the opportunity to demonstrate how we, as Grange Heroes, will keep busy in the upcoming months.

The next opportunity will be the 130th Annual Washington State Grange Convention, which will be held at the Okanogan County Fairgrounds in Okanogan on June 26-29. Housing and meal information is printed in this issue of The Grange News. In the next issue, you will find a full convention schedule and information on speakers and workshops during the convention. If you haven't booked your hotel room yet, please do so immediately as our dates are conflicting with the other events in the Okanogan and Omak areas on that weekend.

Just prior to our convention, some of you in the Vancouver and suburban Portland area may want to visit the Oregon State Grange Convention, which will be held at the Molalla High School in nearby Molalla, OR. Their convention begins on June 22 with an agricultural tour, the exemplification of the first four degrees, and their talent show that evening. The official opening of their convention will be on the morning of Sunday, June 23, followed by business sessions. The fifth and sixth degrees will be held that evening. Their convention will continue through Thursday, June 27.

Late June will also see the first of multiple Junior Grange camps across the state. The Junior Grange Camping Program is designed to teach Grange values and philosophies, while at the same time enjoying traditional camping activities. Each of the camps is operated by a board of directors, who selects the camp staff and plans the camp activities. Each of the camps is chartered as a Junior Grange, thus those who attend will become Junior Grange members. Camps are held during six different weeks, beginning in late June and going until mid-August. For a complete list of dates

Take each opportunity and make the most of it as we work to invite our friends and neighbors to join us and learn how Grangers are heroes in each of our hometowns across this great nation!

and registration information, please refer to the State Grange website, www.wa-grange.org. Once you are on the website, click under "departments" and then scroll down to "junior camp".

You also have an opportunity to join us at the Grange Day with the Seattle Mariners on July 25. You are invited to join us at the baseball game as the Seattle Mariners take on the Detroit Tigers. Our block of seats will be in Section 137 (between third base and home plate). Tickets are just $30. Order forms are in this newspaper. Be sure to send your order in by July 5.

County and area fairs will begin in mid-July and last into October. Many Granges will participate in the fairs with their elaborate Grange displays. If you haven't started your fair design, now is the time to start the first sketches of your display for this year. Some of you will choose to create an "agricultural produce" display, while others will prefer to create a "project" display. Whichever you choose, I encourage you to take the time to design and execute a well-planned booth this year. Your work should be designed to give an accurate portrayal of our organization and the work we do to improve our communities and agriculture as a whole. Take the extra moment as you create your display to see that it portrays a positive image of our organization.

While some Granges are preparing displays, others will be operating food concessions at a fair. Once again, take the time to see that food is prepared properly and all health guidelines are met. Granges have a strong reputation for quality foods. For those without food concessions, I ask that you support your brothers and sisters by patronizing their food concessions.

In August, the Montana State Grange will host the Western Regional Grange Youth and Leaders Conference on August 9-11 at the Echo Valley Campgrounds, near Elliston, MT. Registration material will soon be available and will be printed in next month's newspaper.

In addition to the above activities, many Granges will be holding picnics, barbecues, open houses, and celebrations in their own communities. Take each opportunity and make the most of it as we work to invite our friends and neighbors to join us and learn how Grangers are heroes in each of our hometowns across this great nation!

Legislative

Legislative Update: It's All Over But The Budget, Mostly.

Heather Hansen

By Heather Hansen
Legislative Lobbyist

It's all over but the budget, mostly. The legislature has passed all cutoff dates. For the most part, bills are either passed or dead. But this process is full of exceptions, so some dead bills will come back to life and a few live bills will fail to make it past the Governor's desk.

The House and Senate have each passed three budgets – operating, capital and transportation. There are many differences between the two sides, some are large, some are small. For example, the Senate Capital budget includes $2 million for health and safety grants for fairgrounds. The House budget does not. The House Capital budget includes $1.2 million for fencing to keep elk out of farm crops. The Senate budget does not. Before the legislative session can adjourn, both sides must agree on all three budgets. The last constitutional day of this legislative session is April 28. If the budget has not been finalized by then, a special session may be called.

New bills are still being introduced. Most of them are new taxes. One of the most recently introduced bills is SB 6017. It was sponsored by eight Democratic Senators, most of them fairly new to the legislature. The bill would impose an additional excise tax on any business that pays an employee more than one million dollars. If an employee makes more than $10 million dollars, the tax rate would be 10%. According to the prime sponsor, Sen. Joe Nguyen, it is "a tax on wealth inequality." In the private sector, many highly paid employees get much of their compensation in stock options, so if the bill were to pass, the number of employees covered may be fewer than expected. Ironically, there are five public employees who make more than one million dollars per year. They are the University of Washington football coach who makes nearly $5 million per year, the WSU football coach, the WSU basketball coach, the UW basketball coach, and the UW chief investment officer. Since the state does not tax itself, their salaries would not be included.

You may wonder why I'm writing about this since it is very unlikely that any Grange members fall into this category. In both the House and Senate, there have been new bills introduced that are being referred to as Robin Hood bills. They take from the rich and give to the poor. This may sound appealing to some, but many farmers appear to be "rich" on paper because they own land. And imposing new taxes on highly paid employees has the potential to create unintended consequences. Some of the most innovative companies may choose not to come to Washington if we enact such taxes.

Washington's economy has been booming for several years, especially in the Puget sound region. Eventually, there will be a downturn. State spending grew $11 billion during the past four years. State lawmakers have taken advantage of the commensurate growth in tax revenues to invest in education and other important programs. But now the policy think tanks are getting anxious as the legislature continues to consider more spending rather than saving for a rainy day.

Hunter Orange: State law requires hunters to wear fluorescent orange clothing to ensure they are visible to others. ESSB 5148 passed the legislature unanimously. It would allow hunters to wear either fluorescent orange or fluorescent pink clothing.

Overweight Farm Trucks: SSB 5883 would allow vehicles carrying farm products to exceed total gross weight limits on occasion. Recognizing that it is difficult to weigh in the field, this bill would allow each driver to exceed total gross weight limits by two thousand pounds twice a year.

Wolves: HB 2097 sponsored by Rep. Joel Kretz requires the Department of Fish and Wildlife to maintain sufficient staff resources in Ferry and Stevens counties for ongoing response to conflicts between gray wolves and livestock, and for continued implementation of proactive nonlethal deterrents. It also directs the department to develop and implement conflict mitigation guidelines for each wolf recovery region. Cattle producers, tribes, and conservation groups all supported the bill. The Center for Biological Diversity opposed it.

Grange Connection

ADAMS COUNTY

Ralston Grange had a "full plate" at our April meeting. Our program after the meeting featuring Lee Agnew telling us about the 15+ motion clocks he brought out to share with us, plus insight on a number of clocks members shared; was a lot of fun and very interesting. We also celebrated Deloris Allert's 93rd birthday and she shared with us some of her earliest memories. We are so lucky to have Deloris as a member and friend. We covered a lot of ground at the business meeting, including: Donations of $100 from Don Schwerin and $500 from the VFW/American Legion in Ritzville were noted. We are asking our members, in return, to help out the VFW/Legion Memorial weekend put out and take down flags at the cemetery in Ritzville and also help them fill shifts, if needed, when they serve refreshments at the rest area. *The Grange will be providing/selling breakfast and lunch at the Rabbit Show May 18 at the fairgrounds. The John Wayne Wagon and Trail Riders Assoc. will overnight in Ralston on May 25. Our Grange will sponsor a dinner and auction at our hall that evening. We will need members to provide desserts, work the kitchen, and donate auction items. An ad will be placed in the Journal and on Facebook thanking the 16 local businesses who are Associate members of our organization. Building insurance has gone up 20% this year to $1800. Alternatives will be looked at. The Easter Egg Hunt was a success with about two dozen kids participating. Grange Camp at Camp Wooten is June 23 to 28 and is for any youth ages 9 to 14. Financial help is available through both the State Grange and locally to meet the $180 campership fee. Contact Randy Roth for more information. Purchase of a cotton candy machine was approved. Cotton candy will be sold by the Grange at the fair and any other appropriate events throughout the year. Two repair projects are in need of help. Anyone with masonry experience is needed to help repair the flag base at the park. Also needed is help installing a new outdoor carpet on the front steps of the hall.

CLALLAM COUNTY

Crescent Grange welcomed into the Grange family Melissa Corey and family and Marva Jean Judd and her family. Sadly, we lost Emil Person, a 70 year Grange member. After a long, cold and snowy winter on the Olympic Peninsula, the members of Crescent Grange are gearing up for their planned Spring and Summer activities. We began the year's activities with our semi-annual Flea Market and plant sale on April 5 & 6. This has been a tough winter for plants, but Master Emil Moilanen promised there would be plenty for our customers who cherish plants that are home grown in local soil. We host the Memorial Day Program at Crescent Beach on May 27th when we honor our veterans past and present together with those members of the armed forces currently serving at home and in foreign lands. Grangers supply programs, cookies, tea, coffee and hot chocolate. Arrange for the Sea Scouts to do the flag ceremony, arrange the music and the keynote speaker etc. Clean up day at the Grange Hall - June 5th: bring your gardening tools and join in the fun sprucing up the flower beds, shrubs and grounds. Crescent Grangers take great pride in their Grange Hall and grounds. Camp David: This is where we show off our culinary skills assisting with food preparation for the campers at Camp David Jr. on beautiful Lake Crescent. Cooking for 80 to 100 campers and staff is a challenge and a learning experience, but a fun day and the kids enjoy the dozens and dozens of cookies we bring for dessert. August is a busy, busy month for Crescent Grangers with the Joyce Daze Wild Blackberry Festival and the Clallam County Fair. We are active in all parts of the festival from the breakfast at 7am to the Grand Parade at 1pm and everything in between. For the Fair we set up our booth around the Fair theme. This year it's "Red, White and Moo. It's our 100th too". We have the Agriculture Building watch for all of Saturday. This will keep us busy throughout the summer months. We have September to rest up and then we get into the fall and winter activities.

Grange News Photo Creates "Famous" Reaction From Junior

By Richard Lefever

I don't normally submit pictures of my grandkids or brag about them - for this picture I'm going to make an exception.

My 5-year old grandson Reeve and his father Matthew expressed an interest in displaying their Lego creation at the Klickitat County Pomona Grange Mini Fair. While I was in Albany, Oregon, picking up their project for displaying, Ashley my daughter in-law showed me the picture (right).

Ashley explained "One of Reeve's chores when he gets home from preschool is to get the mail and bring it into the house. One afternoon while routinely bringing in the mail, he recognized your picture on the front page of the Washington State Grange News." He excitedly explained to his mother that was his Grandfather Papa Rich and his Uncle Daniel on the front page - they must be famous. The picture shows my oldest son Daniel and myself at the 2018 National Grange Convention, in Stove, VT receiving the Distinguished Grange Award for Goldendale Grange #49. For several days Reeve showed everyone interested and a few that weren't as interested his copy of the WA State Grange News.

The Grange News even made it into an Oregon Pre-School - Show and Tell. He is truly a young Granger. In 2017, Grandson Reeve attended the his first National Grange Convention in Spokane where the Lefever family received the National Grange Legacy award.

Kudos to Judy Logan who found us kitchen chairs at the WA State Surplus for $3 each, they are very similar to the ones we were too purchase which would have cost us ALOT more. Rentals of the Grange continue to increase. We are on the lookout for a used frig, and electric stove. We like the "copy & hand out/post" from The Good Day Magazine, the pages can be used for promotion and to share information. Great idea! Go Grangers!

He worked actively in the orchard well into his nineties. He also worked for Upland Winery as one of Yakima Valley's first wine chemists. In 2009 Upland Estates issued a red table wine named "Julian" commemorating him and using his red wine blend methods. ## BEEvesting In Our Community

Several farms, nonprofit organizations and business partners collaborated recently to launch a Pollinator Pathway project in the Sammamish Valley in east King County. With an interest in ways to support the local food system these partners looked for a fun, family-friendly activity that would impact the local environment. Bees and pollinators were determined to be a sure-fire way to get started!

"BEEvesting in our Community," was originated by Sammamish Valley Grange #286, Sammamish Valley Alliance (SVA), 21 Acres and Coastal Community Bank. A Pollinator Pathway connects green spaces in a specific corridor including backyard gardens, farms, planting strips, pea-patches, etc., along a designated pathway. These pathways host plants that bees and butterflies and other pollinators visit. It's a model used in both urban and rural settings to support the foundation of local food systems. Working cohesively, the above partners were looking for an opportunity to bring residents, farmers and businesses together encouraging everyone to further understandings of local environmental issues, food systems and climate challenges.

An easy first step was acknowledging and learning about the importance of bees in food production. The "BEEvesting" project, has short-term and long-term goals, beginning this spring as volunteers from the Sammamish Valley Grange and others installed mason bee boxes on several farms and properties in the Sammamish Valley. Why mason bees? Mason bees are native and provide important pollination services for trees, plants and vegetables. Although they don't produce honey, the fact that they're native means that they are well adapted to our environment and are key to many plants, including most of the foods that we eat, being able to survive. At the April Sammamish Valley Grange #286 program, members and guests heard from Olivia Shangrow, a biologist and operations specialist with the local company, Rent Mason Bees. She presented information on the importance of mason and leafcutter bees and other pollinators necessary for food production. Additional opportunities were also discussed to support the Grange's "BEEvestment" in the community.

She learned to make a "Mission Statement" and to encourage each Subordinate Grange to do their own "Mission Statement". Judy Steigmann attended the Lecturer

Chaplain's Corner

Memorial Services Encouraged In Each Grange

By Pam Matthews
State Grange Chaplain

I want to encourage you to have a memorial service in your Granges this spring. Included in the Lecturer packets, is a memorial service. This service is a suggestion only and you may want to use all or any part of it. Or do something else entirely. That is fine; I just ask that your Grange have a memorial service, in the spring, to remember those brothers and sisters who have passed on in the preceding twelve months. A copy of the service will be on the State Grange web site.

I would also like to remind you if your Grange has any members who were Deputies, State Officers, District Directors, or their spouses, who have died this last year, to let me know as soon as possible so I may write a special tribute for these members for the annual memorial service at the State Grange convention.

Grange secretaries, please send me the names of your past

Masters and/or spouses who have passed away this last year, for the Memorial roll at the State session. The form is in the secretary's packet.

If you have any questions, comments, or have a report to make please phone or email me at: 360-352-7043 or mathewstwin@hotmail.com. Put "Grange" in the subject line please.

May the Lord bless you all.

CFL Is Prepping For WA State Grange Convention

By Eileen Moebius
Family Living Director

The CFL Department is still looking for veterans that we can honor with a Quilt of Valor Quilt. We have eight quilts to give out at the 2019 Convention, to be held at the Okanogan County Fairgrounds. We want to honor veterans from the east side of the mountains this year. You can send names and bios to Eileen Moebius, PO Box 292, Kapowsin WA 98344 or email me at emoebius@att.net.

Just one month until convention. I hope you have had your CFL contests. If not it is still time to put the contest together and have a contest.

Something wonderful has just happened to us. I had a cat adopt me last month. She said she wants to come to Okanogan for the convention. Her name is Kaleidoscope. She is a great help with the quilts we are working on. She wants you to know you can see her on the Face Book page. It is Washington State Grange Family Living.

The CFL team meet at Fruitland Grange to go over what we are going to do and what is going to happen at Convention. Take in should go smoothly, and judging may go faster with more judges and a different layout. If you have a few minutes and would like to help us, please come on down and lend a hand. Ann was not able to meet with us this time. We missed you, Ann.

Have you bought your CFL breakfast tickets yet? The order form is in this issue of the

Eileen Moebius

Grange News. The tickets are $18.00 this year. Sister Mary Hunt will be handling the tickets and the Breakfast.

Don't forget the items for the live auction and the silent auction. We have four quilts to go in the auctions.

If you would like to judge or know someone who may be interested, please contact Sister Helen Berg. She is handling getting the judges for the CFL department. I think we still need baking, sewing and possibly needlework

Lecturer's Department

Convention Preparation Is Underway!

By Leslie Jo Wells
State Grange Lecturer

We are almost at the end of our Grange contest season. The entries for the Creative Writing contest have been received and I am getting ready to distribute them for judging. They will be available for pick-up at convention in Okanogan.

I have also received the first few reports from Pomona Granges for this year's Arts & Crafts and Photography contests. We must keep working to promote the contests by reaching out to our Grange members and neighbors and encouraging them to participate. You may use our contests as a membership tool with non-Grangers. From painting to woodworking to needle arts, we certainly have a variety of contests that will fit their interests. All Pomona Granges should have their contests completed by the end of May. Please be sure to send in the results so we can be prepared for your entries at the convention. For those Pomonas who have contests scheduled for early June, please be sure to send in the contest results immediately after the contest. The sooner I receive your results the better - it means check-in at convention will be easier for you. Also, when you bring the purple ribbon winners to state, please make sure the only thing attached to the item is the entry tag that was used at the Pomona contest. I am looking forward to hearing how your contests went this year.

As was mentioned at the Leadership Conferences, there were changes made to some of the Arts & Crafts classes, but there were no changes made to the Photography classes. The State Lecturer Team will be reviewing all contests and the associated classes this Fall before setting the 2020 program. If you have any suggestions for changes to the contests please let me know.

As you are no doubt aware... it seems that nothing in life is free. That thought also applies to our costs for the ribbons and monetary awards given to our various contest winners. It is very much appreciated when Granges support our Lecturer Department by donating items for the Live and Silent Auctions that are held at the Convention. This year, we are planning to have the Silent Auction items for all four departments in the same area at Convention. That way, you don't have to go to each department to see what's available. One stop shopping! Please look for this opportunity when you're at convention.

Please contact me with your questions and concerns regarding our contests or programs. It is easiest to contact me via email, lesliewells@att.net.

Encourage Healthy Eating Habits in Kids

(Courtesy of Family Features)

As a parent, instilling healthy eating habits in your children at an early age can aid in proper growth and development. Eating well goes a long way toward maintaining a healthy weight, increasing energy levels and improving moods while also reducing risk of obesity and other chronic issues such as heart disease and diabetes later in life.

Set your children on a path to making lifelong nutritious choices with these tips:

Foster independence. Allowing your children to help with shopping and meal prep can aid in them taking ownership of what they're eating. Start by divvying up easier tasks such as setting the table then work toward creating snacks and meals on their own. These Rainbow Fruit Parfaits are simple for kids to assemble - just set the ingredients out and let them layer - and can serve as a healthful on-the-go breakfast or after-school snack.

Offer balanced options. Children require balanced diets made up of all three major food groups, including fruits and vegetables, for proper development.

Be a role model. Typically, your children will follow your behaviors, which includes the types of foods they select at mealtimes. Eating a rainbow of fruits and vegetables can help ensure your family is getting a complete range of nutrients.

What's So Great About WA State Junior Grange Camps?

Marvin & Jennifer Oliver

By Marvin & Jennifer Oliver
Junior Grange Directors

When promoting Junior Grange summer camps to non-Granges, new members or seasoned members that have never attended camps, the same questions often come up. What is so unique about our camps? Why should I send my kids? and many others. So sitting around my table at Sunday dinner I asked my family and friends who grew up attending Junior Grange camps and continue to be involved as adults these questions are here are some of the answers.

When asked "What is so unique about our Junior Grange Camps?", Washington State Grange Gatekeeper Nick Oliver had this to say:

"I think that our camps provide kids an early independence. Unless they're attending with a friend or siblings these kids come to camp not knowing anyone which can be scary, but by the end of the week we see these young kids that have gained a sense of independence, confidence, and joy that was not there when they arrived.

It's a special thing to witness when you see a child crying asking their parents "when will you be back?", and then when their parents pick them up at the end of the week they are excitedly jumping up and down asking "can we come next year?!"

"Our camps teach and instill skills that are not necessarily highlighted in school or in a child's home life. Our camps teach and instill responsibility, accountability, and the importance of practice and hard work. Our camps also create unique and lasting friendship, I can honestly say I met and got to know my best friends through Junior Grange Camp!"

When asked "Why should I send my kids to Junior Grange Camp?" Washington State Grange Ceres Brittney Oliver had this to say:

"The Grange takes pride in their family values and ability to positively influence and affect communities. And this is no different when it comes to our Junior

Grange camps. There are several life lessons that kids learn as camp, all while having fun and making memories. Having attended camp as a camper, counselor and later as an adult leader I thought I'd share some invaluable lessons learned at Junior Grange Camp.

Independence and Self Confidence: For many children, like my younger self, summer camp is the first time that they spend away from home for an extended period of time. Campers get a chance to make decisions on their own, from what food they eat to the games they play.

Communication and Problem Solving: For most kids, summer camp is an opportunity to interact with other kids from different backgrounds and have very different experiences than their own. Learning early on how to communicate with others is an invaluable skill that will carry on for life.

Accountability and Responsibility: Campers at Junior Grange Camp get to learn parts in the Junior Grange ritual work, a skit, camp songs, line dances, and even drill. Campers work all week to perfect their part of these activities and then show them off during visitors' night. I think my earliest memory of the feeling of being responsible for something was when I was tasked with reading the Pomona's part during, the Jr. degree work. I practiced reading that paragraph over and over again, because I knew that during visitor's night there would be an audience to see and hear me recite that paragraph."

Within the Grange there are so many people with experiences like these. It makes us proud to be a part of such an amazing program that continues to grow and improve.

Our hope is that you use these answers to help promote the Junior Grange camping program in your area.
